

FEEDBACK ANALYSIS

We conduct a comprehensive feedback mechanism at the end of every session through our LMS (learning management system) eUniv since 2015, wherein students across various faculties participate in the process and provide us with their valuable insights in regard to our academics and overall scenario. Feedback on teaching learning environment, student support and administration, curricular and co extra-curricular, infrastructure facilities, evaluation and examination system all are taken into consideration.

Student feedback was taken on a predesigned questionnaire. The questionnaire was uploaded on the eUniv (LMS) of the university. The questionnaire consisted of six parameters i.e. General, Content, Pedagogy, Communication/Control, eUniv and Overall Rating.

The “General” parameter asked one question that whether the faculty was “regular and punctual in taking the classes”. The “Content” parameter had two questions that asked whether “the faculty had good subject matter knowledge/command over the subject” and “subject or the topic was presented systematically, clearly and according to the lecture schedule”. Third parameter “Pedagogy” had two questions firstly about “encouraging student’s participation and class discussions” secondly “use of PPTs/audio-visual aids/examples/diagrams”. Forth Parameter “Communication/Control” also included two questions that said whether the faculty could “easily/comfortably manage/ handle (any misbehaviour) the students in class” and “language/words/gestures/sound is loud & easily understood”. Parameter “euniv” had additional two questions that were “course supplement on euniv is regularly updated with sufficient content (lecture schedule, PPT, Pdf, student notes, video lectures)” and “takes tests, assignments etc. on euniv”. The last parameter “Overall Rating” included two more questions that asked for the suggestion from the students that whether the current faculty “should be teaching this course to the next set of students” and “what is your overall rating for the teacher with respect to this course”.

All the questions were asked on a Likert scale consisting of five categories namely: strongly disagree, disagree, neutral, agree and strongly agree. One question of the overall rating parameter consisted of responses ranging from 1 star to 5 stars. There was also one open-ended question in the form which asked about any other suggestions or comments of the students. For the purpose of gathering this data all the Deans and Head of Schools were requested to direct their various course coordinators to gather their respective classes in the central IT Lab and get the feedback filled in front of them, alternatively it was also done in the classes through mobiles/laptops. Central eUniv team assists for the smooth conduction of the feedback process with the cooperation of the respective school administration and staff.

The feedback is anonymous and completely confidential which is clearly conveyed to the students. Deans/HOS are to ensure that no teacher is allowed to influence the feedback through unfair means. In our bid to maintain 100% transparency, we open the feedback of all the courses to their respective teachers after the results are declared. All faculty is made aware that the feedback is a professional exercise which should be taken in the right spirit and utilized for further strengthening & raising our teaching standards. Under no circumstances this reflect on a teachers' behaviSour towards students or be even discussed with them. A detailed analysis of the feedback is utilised for in-depth introspection and improvement of organisation in the mutual interest of all stakeholders.

In AY 2016-17, 1512 students participated in "Manthan" and on studying of that following suggestions were listed out and worked out:

Student analysis report
